Risk Warning

The following are the key risks involved in investing in token:

Loss of Capital

$Rising token prices can go down as well as up and different token types or those in different areas may be more or less susceptible to reduced or negative growth. There is a risk that you may not get back what you put in if token prices fall. You should not invest more money through the platform than you can afford to lose without altering your standard of living.

Illiquidity

Any investment you make through the platform will be highly illiquid. There is no regulated market for the token listing, and you must be prepared to hold the investment for as long as you can.

Staking Risk

If a token is staked, investors are allowed to earn only 1% of the value of their investment in USD value for 365 days only after which the full token staked can be released. However, there may be times when the token value goes up and down which may lead to either increase or reduce of staked value after 365 days of staking.

Exit risk

The token exchange market can change, it may be difficult to sell the token at the targeted exit date and you may need to hold the investment for longer than the expected term.

Financial Services Compensation Scheme

Your investment in $Rising tokens is not covered by the Financial Services Compensation Scheme.

Diversification

Investing in token and unlisted cryptocurrency should only be done as part of a diversified portfolio. This means that you should invest relatively small amounts in multiple businesses rather than a lot in one or two businesses. It also means that you should invest only a small proportion of your investable capital in start-ups as an asset class, with the majority of your investable capital invested in safer, more liquid assets.

Tax

You will be responsible for the payment of your own tax which may include capital gains and/or income tax. We do not provide tax advice and you should seek independent tax advice before investing if you are unsure of your position.

Advice

Digibest Ltd does not give investment advice or provide analysis or recommendations regarding investment opportunities. We recommend that you seek independent financial advice before making any investments.
